February 2019

Peter and Cornelius

We had a great opportunity this month to travel about four hours away to the next province over to preach in a town of 7,000 people with no gospel witness. It is a Catholic farming town with only one Catholic Church and no other Church of any kind. Last October we were blessed to meet one of the families from this town at an Independent Baptist Church where the mother and son were baptized. Her husband was not yet ready to make a spiritual decision, but was very friendly and open to discussion. This family invited the pastor to bring a group to their town to see what doors the Lord might open to begin a new church there. He organized a trip to their town and invited me and another Baptist pastor to come and preach. A community center was rented for the weekend and we preached three messages on Saturday night and three more messages on Sunday. We also had a great picnic at one of the sports clubs in town and talked about the Bible, Christ and life late into the night until early in the morning. Pray for this family as well as the two other families that we met while there. Like Cornelius in the Bible, they gathered all of their family in the town to hear the message. After returning home, we started a social media private group for the people of this town and everyone that went on the trip. Immediately this group blew up with activity. My goal is to continue the discipleship process no matter the distance. Each day we are sharing back and forth through the group to encourage one another. We have already begun planning another trip back there at the beginning of April. Please pray that the Lord continues to stir hearts!

First time to get out of the city together as a family since we had arrived!

My family and I were invited last weekend to go tent camping with about 3 or 4 other families. The purpose of the trip was to share the gospel with several lost people that were there. I enjoyed the opportunity to preach one of the evenings. It was also great getting to hear my kids speaking a lot of Spanish with the other kids. I am very proud of the work that all of my family has been putting forth to learn. Continue to pray for us as we continue to learn!

Thoughts from Stacie:

"Como Novios!" my Spanish teacher declared after I told her about Scott asking me if I wanted to go out for a date and how I gladly accepted.

Each class she asks me questions about my day giving me the opportunity to practice small talk in Spanish.

Another thing this does is give her a look into our lives. She was surprised that as busy as we are my husband and I still act like boy friend and girl friend and go out on dates together. Having that time together at least once a week is important to us and it's also good for the people around us to see what marriage should be like and that we enjoy each other's company.

Sharing the Gospel in Spanish

Please pray for us as doors open for us to share the gospel. I had the opportunity to share with my teacher the differences in our beliefs and that of the Catholic Church and what the Bible says. It was a good two hour discussion in which I got to share the gospel clearly with her. My teacher told me that she likes how we care about people but are not pushy with our beliefs. Little does she know how excited I was after that class and the open opportunity she gave me to witness to her again with the homework to write about my faith. Pray for us! It's not easy learning and sharing our faith in a new language but that's what God has asked of us and it's for His honor and glory we are here.

Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

Thankful for all of the opportunities to preach the gospel in the hospitals!

Asado and fellowship with the families of the town of Carlos Pellegrini.

Preaching the Gospel by flashlight

Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord!

Please continue to pray for the people that we talk to each day! Pray that the lost will see their need for the Savior and trust Him and that those that know the Lord will walk closer with Him!
